PRINCIPLES OF THE ORGANIZATION

As the date for the national convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies draws near interest increases over the prospective legislation that will be there enacted. Within the past few days Secretary Eugene J. Cooney, of the local federation, has forwarded blank credentials to the Catholic societies, which prevail concerning them. In this connection I can say, for instance, that where books are introduced into the curriculum of the public schools which misrepresent and falsify our faith, its teachings and its history, the duly authorized representative of this body could take notice of an evil of this character, and by calling the attention of the proper authorities to it could have such objectionable books removed.

"In the federation, in your judgment, either covertly or otherwise identified with politics, or has it been originated by political promoters who seek thereby to increase their own political significance whereof they could make game and capital for their own selfish ends and profit?"

"Not at all. On the contrary, politics, either directly or indirectly, have no part or parcel in it whatever. Its objects are exclusively and entirely fraternal, benevolent and religious, and have nothing whatever to do with parties or politics. Its members and representatives are men of the highest character, integrity, ability and standing in the communities in which they reside, many of them being men of national reputation in their respective spheres of action, and they have nothing but the good of the Government, the church and the State at heart. Whatever they do shall be done in the open, in a reasonable, intelligent and peaceful manner, and no chicanery nor underhand methods shall

SONS OF ERIN.

National Convention of Hibernians at Denver Greatest in History.

Pomp and Ceremony Marked the Proceedings of the Opening Day.

Adjourns as Mark of Respect to Archbishop Feehan, National Chaplain.

KEENAN AND BUTLER ARE PROMINENT

Pomp and ceremony marked the opening of the national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Denver last Tuesday morning. The programme for the day was somewhat abridged because of the unexpected death in Chicago of Archbishop Feehan, who was National Chaplain of the order. Colliseum Hall, where the convention was held, beautifully decorated with flags and flowers, was the scene of bustling activity from an early hour in the morning, with many delegates crowding in, some to greet old friends, others to shake again the hand of newer acquaintances and still others seeking a chance to ask the hard-worked reception committee some of the thousand and one questions of the visitors. Grand Marshal Patrick Murray was busy attending to the wants of the 500 delegates already arrived.

With bobbing plumes, shining high hats, gorgeous regalia and beaming smiles, the procession of the Ancient Order of Hibernians started promptly at 10 o'clock for the Sacred Heart church, where pontifical high mass was to be celebrated in their honor. There all was sunshine and brightness, with signs of welcome everywhere. Chancel and nave were banked with flowers, while high upon the altar blazed the sacred candles with a glow of spiritual light. The church was soon crowded with a silent, expectant throng, who watched the fluttering folds of Old Glory and the flags of green side by side in the middle aisle near the altar rail. Then suddenly the almost oppressive silence was broken by resonant pealing of the organ as Bishop Matz and his priests, resplendent in purple and gold, marched solemnly in and took their places before the altar. With much pomp and ceremony the Bishop was escorted to a scarlet canopied throne and crowned with cap and mitre. An impressive Pontifical high mass followed, in which Bishop Matz was assisted by Vicar General Robinson, Chancellor Phillips and Father Edward Barry.

The mass over, Bishop Matz delivered an address of welcome to the visiting Hibernians, dwelling with some emphasis upon the stand the order had taken in regard to Christian Catholic education. In fact, he said the Hibernians had done more for that cause than any other body of men in the country and he was proud to have the privilege of officially welcoming them to Denver in the name of the Catholic church. Then Father Barry ascended the pulpit and began his sermon.

"You have come living up to your motto, 'in friendship, unity and Christian charity,'" said the Rev. Father R. J. Barry, S. J., by way of prefacing his sermon. "I need hardly add to the welcome just extended you by the Rev. Bishop Matz," he said. "It is an official expression, and should be taken as a welcome of the real old-fashioned Irish sort. When your meeting is over and your work is done for the faith and the fatherland, you shall still leave us here in faith, unity and Christian charity. It is surely an edifying sight to see you here—hundreds of brainy, intellectual men, living true to the principles of the patriarch and patron saint, the good St. Patrick, who 1,500 years ago uttered the prayer, 'Grant me this favor, O Lord. You have come to this city as Catholics—as Irish Catholics—and whether native or to the manor born, it makes no difference, the eyes of the world are upon you. The bone and sinew, the rank and file, the common army, are typified in the Catholic church of America. You are members of a great organization, that is both Catholic and Irish, and the church expects much of you. The warfare of the church of Christ and the world will go on until the end of time, but we must combat it with the intelligence, loyalty and honesty of organizations like yours. We must face and meet these questions. The church needs our undivided loyalty."

The convention had many important matters referred to committees, which could not be reported on before Thursday, when considerable time was taken up with the Gaelic chair question. Bishop Conaty, of the University, addressed the convention, and reports are that his explanation gave entire satisfaction. National Secretary Bree's report showed a membership in the United States of 107,577, and the Ladies' Auxiliary numbered 31,876 members.

Looking over the Denver papers, none seem more prominent than Kentucky's representatives, County President Tom Keenan, and George J. Butler, of Division 3. They have been interviewed and large half-tone cuts of them appear in both the Denver Post and News. The convention is harmonious, the anonymous circulars issued for the purpose of stirring up ill-feeling having signally failed. President Keating announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election, and New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania at once brought out men for his place.

A governing board has been provided for the Ladies' Auxiliary, but their actions will be subject to the approval of the National Board. The official proceedings will be published as soon as received.

HONOR PATRON SAINT.

St. Vincent de Paul Societies at Church of Our Lady.

The feast of St. Vincent de Paul will be observed tomorrow morning at the Church of Our Lady in Portland with impressive services conducted by the beloved and zealous pastor, Rev. Father Conniff. The conferences of all the parishes in the city will meet there to celebrate an important event, their annual visit to the sacrament of holy communion. A happy coincidence is the fact that this is also the communion Sunday of the St. Aloysius Sodality, a society founded by Father Conniff, whose advancement and growth he watches with great care. The mass will begin at 7:30 o'clock, and if all the members attend it will be the largest gathering of Catholic men witnessed in Portland for years. Father Conniff will also preach the sermon, and as he is a most gifted as well as pious pulpit orator, an intellectual treat awaits those who hear him. The generous hearted pastor and members of the congregation have made arrangements for serving coffee and a light collation for the members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the St. Aloysius Sodality immediately after the mass.

The St. Vincent de Paul Society does a work worthy of attention. Through its efforts hundreds of deserving poor are relieved when found in want or sickness, and so quietly is this done that but few know anything of their many charitable acts. Our Catholic men should give this society more of their attention and increase its membership by thousands, thereby bringing upon themselves manifold blessings.

IRISH FIELD DAY.

Committees Perfecting Arrangements For Day of Great Sport.

The various committees appointed to make arrangements for the Irish field day at Fern Grove under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians are making rapid progress. Wednesday night the Executive Committee met with John Hennessy, President of Division 4, in the chair. Reports were received and the number of entries announced for the games was very encouraging and assures success.

Resolutions were adopted providing for suitable prizes for the various contests, entry blanks for which can be obtained from Thomas Dolan, Chairman of the committee on games. Patrick Sullivan has charge of the prizes, and George Butler and the Treasurers will look after the finances. The advertising and printing will be under the supervision of Will Meehan, and already handsome banners are displayed at many points in the city. Tickets are being distributed and next week the sale will begin.

A base ball game will be a feature, the boys from Limerick being ready. We understand, to compete with any nine that may be willing to meet them. The games will consist of running races, jumping, potato races, throwing the hammer, putting the shot, races for boys and girls, etc. Already this field day is more talked about than any coming event, which insures an immense gathering. Three string bands will be secured, so there will be music on all the boats and on the grounds.

THE LADIES' AID.

Next Tuesday evening the annual lawn fete party in aid of the above mentioned fund of the Ladies' Aid of Portland on the beautiful lawn of the Cook place, 2933 Bank street. The object of the society's existence is to provide funds for deserving charitable works, the relief of worthy poor and sick and such other charges as may be required from time to time. The Portland Ladies' Aid has constantly grown in members and influence until today it numbers among its active workers nearly all the prominent Catholic ladies of the West End. The evening's programme will excel that of former years, and will include dancing and quite a number of pleasant attractions. Pretty girls will preside over the tables and refreshment stands, and all who attend will have a jolly time. Only ten cents admission charged.

FRANKFORT THEATRICALS.

The members of the Frankfort Young Men's Institute Dramatic Club are making extensive arrangements to put on their new play early in September, at the Capital Opera House. Manager Cavanaugh has had considerable experience as stage manager in large theaters in Cincinnati and Chicago and will doubtless make the initial performance of the Young Men's Institute Dramatic Club a big success financially and otherwise. An excellent cast is being secured from among the Y. M. C. A. and auxiliary, and rehearsals will commence at once.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS

Falls Cities Branches to Have Big Reunion at Phoenix Hill.

Central Committee Transacts Much Business at Monthly Meeting.

Reports From Branches Show Increase of Thirty-six Members.

ACTION TAKEN ON UNIFORM RANK

The Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America of the Falls Cities held a representative and interesting monthly meeting at St. Mary's Hall last Friday night. Delegates being present from the seventeen branches comprising the body. Harry Veeneman presided and William T. Meehan occupied the Vice President's chair. Delegate Albert Martin was reported much better, and when the roll call revealed the presence of Barney Coll, Jack Murphy and Delegate Monahan, from Jeffersonville, and Messrs P. Reising, Otto Hoffman and Peter Herron, of New Albany, there was quite an outburst of applause.

Chairman McGinn submitted the report of the Finance Committee of the jubilee celebration, which showed a handsome surplus over all expenses. Upon his motion a vote of thanks was tendered all who had in any manner assisted during the jubilee, notice of which was ordered forwarded by Secretary John Score. Upon motion it was decided not to proceed any further at present with the disability question, information having been received that the new laws providing therefor will be put into effect at the next meeting of the Supreme officers, which takes place in November.

The committee to devise ways and means for a reunion and day of pleasure for the Catholic Knights of America and their friends of this city, New Albany and Jeffersonville and surrounding towns, reported through Chairman John Fackler, recommending a reunion and picnic at one of the city parks to be selected later. The recommendation was unanimously concurred in, and upon motion of Thomas Feeley a committee was appointed with instructions to arrange for a grand union picnic. The Chair appointed the following gentlemen: Messrs. Fackler, Veeneman, Feeley, Geher, Reichert, Holley, McGinn, Seibert, Schalda, Schmitt, Hillerich, Norton, Thiekstun, Dittmeyer, Stoerr, O'Connell, Recktenwald, who were given full power to act and instructed to report at a special meeting of the Central Committee, which was later called for Friday evening, July 18, when sub-committees would also report. Following the regular session the committees appointed met and proceeded with their work, adjourning until Monday evening, when decisive action was taken.

Reports from the branches showed a gain of thirty-six members during the preceding month, good evidence that an earnest struggle is on for the prizes to be awarded at the State convention. Action upon the proposition to organize a uniform rank was deferred till later in the year, when all possible information on the subject will have been obtained from other cities.

From the St. Anthony Society of Holy Name church was received a message of gratitude to the Catholic Knights for their assistance and presence in such large numbers at the laying of the corner stone of Father O'Connor's new and handsome church edifice in South Louisville.

Before adjourning short but encouraging talks were made by Miss Louise Fackler, the first lady member of the order in Kentucky; Barney Coll, complementing the committee upon its work, and Chairman Veeneman, who announced that St. Michael's branch would not stop until its membership had been increased 100 per cent.

State President Reichert was called for and in response stated that never before were the members of the order as enthusiastic in their work as now. The announcement that he would devote his vacation to work for the order, visiting the branches in Covington, Newport and other cities if possible, was greeted with great applause. President Reichert predicted that when the State convention met at Frankfort the reports would show a surprising growth in membership. The branch at Lebanon had sent for twenty-five applications, and from other towns came reports to the same effect. It was his earnest hope that the increase would reach such proportions as would entitle the order in Kentucky to another delegate in the Supreme body. The Central Committee then adjourned, after which the gentlemen appointed to arrange for the union picnic met and organized, electing the following officers:

Chairman—John Fackler. Secretary—Thomas Feeley. Treasurer—Michael Reichert. After some discussion Messrs. Harry Veeneman, Pat Holley and John Schalda were instructed to visit the parks and secure the one best suited to the celebration, to report at another meeting of the committee to be held Monday night. At this last meeting Chairman Fackler presided, the committee being unanimous in its action favoring Phoenix Hill for Monday afternoon and night, August 18.

The price of admission was fixed at the small sum of ten cents, and Messrs. William G. Norton, Pat Holly and Andy Hillerich were appointed a committee on printing and advertising. Further reports were to be made to the meeting of the entire Central Committee held last night, a complete account of the proceedings of which will appear next week.

The Central Committee deserves great credit for its good judgment in this affair. This will be the first time the Catholic Knights of this city have had a union celebration and picnic in Louisville, and it is safe to predict that the entire membership will show its appreciation by going earnestly to work and making the largest and most successful fraternal gathering ever seen here.

EXPRESSIONS OF PRAISE AND GRIEF

Last week the Kentucky press sadly announced the death of the noble Sam Bryant. This week a gloom hangs over our community by the chronicling of the death of another great-hearted and honorable Christian man—Marcus Doerhoefer. Many knew that he was very sick, but none surmised that his death several of whom may send delegates. The Knights of Columbus have selected two, who will co-operate with Dr. J. W. Fowler and his colleague, who go as the representatives of the combined societies. The credentials should all be returned to Secretary Matre before July 28, accompanied by the per capita tax.

For the purpose of making such changes in the constitution as may be deemed most satisfactory to all national bodies the Executive and Advisory Boards of the Federation will meet in Chicago several days before the convention to confer with the supreme officers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Knights of America, Knights of St. John, Irish Catholic Benevolent Union, Young Men's Institute, Catholic Truth Society, Central Verein, Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, Western Catholic Union, Catholic Benevolent Legion, Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, Catholic Order of Foresters and others. A special call will also be issued by Bishops McFaul and Messmer urging all societies, whether affiliated or not, to send delegates.

Among those who have given much thought to this great movement among the Catholics of this country is Thomas Walsh, the well known lawyer and poet, with whom the representative of the Kentucky Irish American this week had the following interview, which will prove interesting to our many readers:

"What do you think of the American Federation of Catholic societies, the convention of which is to be held in Chicago on August 5, 6 and 7?"

"That is rather a comprehensive question, and one to which a reply in full would require an extensive answer. In the main, however, I can say that in my humble judgment it is the best move that has ever been inaugurated in our land for promotion of unity, fraternity and good feeling among the Catholic societies of this country. It will tend to do away with every trace of racial or sectional feeling which may have heretofore existed, and it will make all the societies take a common interest in the common cause of Catholic affairs, educational and otherwise, and likewise take an interest in the welfare of each other. In addition thereto it will also tend to bring the Catholic clergy and laity into closer union with each other, and this always produces a beneficial effect."

"What, in your opinion, are the main purposes and objects of the federation?"

"If I understand it rightly, the federation seeks to protect and promote within its proper sphere the interests of the church at large in this country, and to this end it shall aim to use its influence against any legislation, local or national, which may be attempted inimical to the just rights and welfare of the church, or prejudicial to its interests or too sectarian in character. It may also be possible at times through its proper representatives to secure enlightened legislation on points involving religious affairs, and to correct false impressions and opinions be resorted to by them in the accomplishment of their work."

"With what success and encouragement has the federation met since its beginning?"

"It began last December in Cincinnati with the State federation of Ohio, but since then it has established federations in thirteen States, as follows: Ohio, Kentucky, New Jersey, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Wisconsin, Alabama, Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Kansas and Minnesota, all of which have appointed delegates to attend the convention to be held in Chicago next month. These delegates will represent over a million Catholics. It has met with decided encouragement at the hands of many of the most eminent ecclesiastical dignitaries of the country, including such men as Bishop Messmer and Bishop McFaul, who in and out of season are untiring in their efforts to uphold it and give it the commanding influence and power which it can easily attain if the Catholic societies at large render it proper influence and support and unite with it. 'In union there is strength' is an old adage but a true one, and applies with especial force to the great good that can be accomplished by the federation, provided its work is carried on with proper energy, ability and perseverance."

"As a matter of fact, do you think the Catholic laity of this country could render the cause of religion much actual and practical assistance by taking an active part in its affairs?"

"I most certainly do, and in this opinion I am firmly supported by the judgment of eminent clergymen such as Father J. M. Fleming, O. S. A., of Lawrence, Mass., who ascribes much of the lethargy shown in our religious welfare to the lack of interest manifested by our Catholic laymen. He says that if they were so determined and prompted by proper zeal they could render the church incalculable aid by opposing the godless education which is at present breeding infidelity, irreligion and social evils throughout the land. These evils, like coming events, cast their baleful shadows before them and threaten to blight the splendid future of our republic. The priest can do much, but he can not do everything, and his counsel, to become effective, must be reduced to action by the rank and file of the church militant that is under his guidance and command. A General can not overcome the enemy without the assistance of his army, but with the combined efforts of both warriors can be accomplished and victory secured."

Since the foregoing was written we learn that Messrs. Frank Menne and Walter P. Lincoln have been selected to represent the Louisville Council of the Knights of Columbus. Edward Smith will be Mackin Council's delegate, and Satoli Council has decided to send John J. Crotty. They are all men of education and ability and will give Louisville a splendid representation.

LATE MARCUS DOERHOEFER.

tucky Irish American visited Jeffersonville last Tuesday night and were present at a largely attended and interesting meeting of Division 1 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. They were given a cordial reception by President Gleason, Secretaries Hogan and Devitt and Treasurer Michael Kinney.

The semi-annual reports showed a handsome net increase in the finances of the division, now the richest and most powerful fraternal society in Jeffersonville. The amount paid for sick and relief benefits was also large, but at the present time John Ryan was the only member on the sick list. Appropriation was made for the expenses of Will Riley, who will again be delegate to the State convention next month. By unanimous vote it was decided to hold the next election of officers on the night of the last meeting in September.

President Gleason introduced County Secretary Meehan, who made a short but very interesting address, containing several timely suggestions and a compliment to those who were present. He closed by extending a cordial invitation to all to participate in the outing and Irish field day to be given by his Louisville brethren, which was accepted, with the assurance that Jeffersonville would be well represented and might capture many prizes.

The matter of greatest interest, however, was the report of the committee having in charge the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the Jeffersonville division. Chairman John Ryan, Music Director Louis Constantine, John Devitt, Dan McCarty and J. B. Murphy, Jr., reported that they had engaged Forest Park for Monday night, July 28, and had secured the Louisville Union Military Band for the occasion. All that was possible was being done to make the celebration a success, and the programme when completed would surpass any ever seen in Jeffersonville. A great surprise will be prepared for the Irish of the three Falls Cities, thousands of whom are expected to attend.

After the adjournment of the meeting the visitors were taken in charge by County Treasurer Barney Coll, Police Commissioner Murphy, Redmond Stanton, Michael Fogarty and several others, who had arranged for them a pleasant surprise in the way of an informal reception, Adam Liebel having prepared a nice luncheon, after which an hour was devoted to story-telling and merry-making. The affair was enjoyable indeed and will long be remembered.

WELCOME BISHOP M'DONNELL.

It is expected that the Right Rev. Charles E. McDonnell, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn, who is in Paris with Monsignor Barrett, will sail for home today. A committee representing all the Catholic organizations of the Brooklyn Diocese, of which Bernard J. York is Chairman, is making preparations to go down the bay with a steamer to welcome the Bishop upon his arrival.

was near. His good constitution and brave heart caused all his friends to feel that he would soon be up and about again, but the grim reaper was watching guard unseen and unsuspected up to a week ago, when his condition was felt to be dangerous. Now that he has crossed to the other side the deep friendship inspired by this most natural and generous man has given rise to expressions of praise and admiration for his royal good nature, and grief at his early taking away. One of a noble band of five brothers, his rise to affluence was a mark of his ability. Thoughtful and courteous toward his employees, his distinctive trait made him loved by all who worked for him. Genial and clever, his associates welcomed him among them; far seeing and provident, his family was uppermost in his mind, but not to the exclusion of either relatives or friends. The ties of blood and kindred run like a pure, sparkling stream through the whole Doerhoefer family even to the remotest kinship, and there was no stoppage in its crystal flow in the large nature of the dead brother. His funeral, which took place from the Sacred Heart church, bore testimony to his worth in the community and the love in which he was held during life. The sorrow manifested was real—every one present had lost a friend and the church was poorer in the loss of a good son. To his father, who survives him, his wife and children, brothers and relatives is the comforting assurance given that Mother Church has enfolded him in her loving embrace, and that he awaits them in the glorious dawn of the resurrection.

The church was crowded with those who had come to pay their last tribute of respect long before the arrival of the mourning funeral cortege. The remains were met at the main entrance by Rev. Patrick Walsh, celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, and borne to the altar railing by the pall-bearers, Messrs. Daniel Murphy, Albert Freville, Edward Coggeshall, Hon. Joe T. O'Neal, Col. John H. Whallen, John Dignan, Sanford Vaughan and Mike J. Duffy. Rev. Chas. P. Raffo and Rev. Bernard Cunningham, both warm personal friends of Mr. Doerhoefer, were the assistant priests. Rev. Father Walsh pronounced an eloquent and feeling eulogy over the remains of their departed friend, and during his discourse there was scarce a dry eye in the church.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Despite the warm weather there was a fair attendance at the meeting of Trinity Council last Monday night. The new constitution and by-laws were completed and adopted as a whole. Will Reiser was balloted for and elected, and Dr. Phil Bentel was chosen alternate to the Grand Council, succeeding Emmet Slatery, who will be unable to serve. Messrs. Edward and Nic Bosler were reported still sick. Hereafter the second degree will be conferred only on the third Monday of each month.

APPEALED TO THE PUBLIC.

An attorney who appeals from the court to the public through cards in the newspapers neither adds to his reputation as a lawyer nor strengthens his case. In a morning daily was published a card from the attorney for a young girl recently sent to the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Twenty-third and Bank streets. It was really intended as an appeal to the anti-Catholic public against the authorities who ordered the girl restrained and the decision of County Judge Gregory throwing him and his case out of court. His statement as published does not reveal a knowledge of court procedure, interpretation or application of law, character or purpose of Catholic institutions. If his card is a reflex of his petition filed in the County Court, that, aside from improper procedure and jurisdiction, fully justified Judge Gregory's summary dismissal of the motion and petition "without hearing argument and evidence." But even if the attorney's quotations of law and allegations in the case are correct, Judge Gregory's summary ruling declining to in any way interfere with and set aside a judgment of the City Court was proper, as everyone at all acquainted with court procedure and jurisdiction is aware.

The attorney's contention is that the law governing the appointment of guardians can be applied by a County Judge to allow one placed in custody of the Board of Children's Guardians and confined under order of a criminal Judge to select a guardian and secure release, thus nullifying the judgment and setting at naught the jurisdiction of the criminal Judge and the Board of Guardians.

He also gives an incorrect impression in his statement of the case. The girl was neither accused nor convicted of crime. If so, the procedure would have been as usual in criminal cases, and she would not be sent to the convent at Twenty-third and Bank streets, as it does not admit criminals nor are "fallen women" incarcerated there. The girl, being of tender years, was found by Agent Hild, of the Humane Society, associating with and in charge of improper persons, (a fact conceded by the attorney), and on his complaint to the Judge pro tem of the City Court, the child was taken into custody; under order of the regular Judge, who in the meantime resumed his duties, the case was referred to the Board of Children's Guardians, which ordered her sent to the institution at Twenty-third and Bank streets—to the "Convent of the Good Shepherd," not to a reformatory asylum for fallen women and girls." This was the procedure. Nothing irregular nor unusual about it. It is in conformity with the law made and provided in such cases and enforced by the officers authorized by law.

But there was "no petition filed," "no charges made," "no notice given her guardian," "no trial," "no session of court," "the Judge was not on the bench," says the attorney, though he admits he was present and protested and questioned the right of the Judge to sit in the case and order the girl's arrest, all of which the Judge overruled.

All these objections urged by the attorney in this case would apply to all cases in which children are sent to reformatories and, unfortunately, there are many of them, for the same course is usually followed in all, publicity being avoided to shield the child and family from a blot on their reputation to mar their future in life. If the attorney's contention that such proceedings are illegal and void, and those so confined should be released, our reformatories, houses of refuge and the like would be emptied of their inmates and be only useful hereafter as penal institutions—no longer reformatories to save the wayward and unprotected from crime, but simply prisons to punish those guilty of crime.

The courts, however, in this State, and, indeed, throughout Christendom, do not agree with this attorney's ideas of law, and hence there is a mode of procedure in reform cases distinctly different from criminal cases, and laws governing wards and reformatories distinctly different from those governing criminals and penal institutions—which this attorney does not seem to understand, or will not concede, especially where a convent is involved, the character and purpose of which he likewise misunderstands.

But, after blundering as to the law and procedure, publicly denouncing the agent of the Humane Society, Judge of the City Court, the Board of Children's Guardians, County Judge Gregory, slurring the Sisters of the Good Shepherd and their institutions for reforming and saving the unfortunate, and publishing to the world the disgraceful associations of his juvenile client, this attorney seems to have concluded to consent to the proper course. Parties agreed to adopt the child. Their character being satisfactorily vouched for to the child's custodian, the Board of Children's Guardians—not the Sisters of the Good Shepherd—the President of the Board, agent of the Humane Society and the child's attorney went before Judge Miller on Wednesday, where the necessary papers were signed, legal formalities complied with and the child turned over to her adopted parents. This could easily have been done, as is frequently the case, without publicity and scandal, had her attorney pursued the proper course at the outset.

BALFOUR IS PREMIER.

Lord Salisbury surprised the British public by resigning the Premiership last Saturday, which was announced with the King's selection of Mr. Balfour as Premier to form a Ministry. Salisbury's resignation was expected, but not so soon. Who will constitute the new Ministry, what will be the changes, if any, in the Government policy, and the effect upon the affairs of the empire are mere surmises thus far. That Chamberlain and his friends are disappointed, as well as surprised, is illy concealed, though it is claimed that he and Balfour came to an understanding, and the Chamberlain faction will not oppose the new Ministry. The prompt resignation of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chamberlain's rival, gives color to this view of the situation. Mr. Balfour, in his utterances since accepting the position is guarded and gives no clew as to whether there will be material changes in the personnel or policy of the Ministry. He seems to be feeling his way with the desire to harmonize and unite his party and the friends of the Government.

When young girls—even twins of a widowed mother—roam the streets in a large city with men till too late to go home, and then spend the night at a strange lodging house to which the men take them, where they are found and taken in charge by the police; and when the widowed mother can not or will not prevent such roaming by her twin daughters, indeed, does not consider such conduct as wayward, it strikes us that it is time for the proper authorities to deprive even a widowed mother of the control of her twin daughters and place them somewhere that their liberty may be restrained for their own future well-being. With the foregoing facts admitted, the order of a Judge sending those girls to an institution, despite the protest and entreaty of the widowed mother, if not commended, at least should not be condemned, pending an appeal by the widowed mother in habeas corpus proceedings, had the Judge not ordered the girls "immured in a convent." Horrors! And this in a free country and the enlightened Twentieth century!

Mr. Dillon got the best of the debate with Secretary Wyndham on Irish conditions in the House of Commons. Backed by records and official reports of the absence of crime in Ireland, Dillon held Wyndham to task and asked why the Crimes Act and coercion were being enforced, people arrested and jailed, the constabulary patrolling the highways, menacing the peace, in districts where the court records show there has been no crime for months. Mr. Wyndham's reply was evasive, indicating he was unprepared for such direct queries, and without attempting denial of Dillon's charges against the constabulary acts, he pleaded time, promising to give the matter his serious consideration.

The bright dream of English iron and steel manufacturers of a harvest after peace in South Africa is obscured by a cloud. Their advance agent reports that agents of American firms have already covered the field, secured contracts for large buildings at prices that stagger the English iron masters, and worse than all, guarantee delivery on the spot and erection complete in less time than the English could get the iron work to South Africa. The British Trade Commissioners report an immense business in steel building material offering in South Africa and express surprise at the tardiness of the English firms, who are allowing the Americans to get all of it worth having.

Never has a more deplorable tragedy occurred in Louisville than that in which Robert Murphy lost his life at the hands of John Lester, bringing grief and shame to two families and many relatives and friends. The unfortunate victim was a popular young man, exemplary in his habits, while his slayer was regarded as inoffensive by those who knew him best. This lamentable affair should prove a warning to young men—who should never carry deadly weapons or drink to excess, lest they, too, should cause shame to their relatives and sorrow to their friends.

The Cincinnati Traction Company, a combination controlling all street car lines in that city, is waging war on labor unions by refusing employment to union men and discharging all employees suspected of unionism. What is the matter with Cincinnati labor organizations, that they tolerate and patronize such outrageous ostracism by a public corporation?

Following John M. Burke's bequest of $4,000,000 to found a home for convalescents in New York, published in the Kentucky Irish American last week, Mrs. Annie E. Walsh gives $450,000 for the education of candidates for the Catholic priesthood.

BROOKS' CHICAGO BAND.

Music lovers will have a rich treat at Phoenix Hill Park with the advent of the famous Brooks Band of Chicago, which will be next week's attraction. This band is regarded by many as the best in the country, and should attract thousands to the cool hilltop. Beginning Sunday afternoon the engagement will be for one week.

SOCIETY.

Rev. Father J. R. Kelly, O. P., of St. Louis Bertrand's, is enjoying a few weeks' vacation in the East.

Miss Alma Zahner left Wednesday for Frankfort, to spend three weeks with relatives and friends.

Miss Mary Welch, of New York City, arrived here Tuesday to be the guest of Miss Mary Brent Stewart.

Mrs. Teresa Joyce and little Nellie Sowders are visiting friends and relatives in Cincinnati and Covington.

Mrs. George H. Naber and her sister, Miss Lorena Stickler, left this week for Cleveland, to visit Mrs. Fennel.

Miss May Hourigan left last week for Asheville, N. C., to spend the summer with her aunt, Mrs. William Francis.

Miss Nellie Brogan is at Asheville, N. C., the guest of Mrs. William Francis, with whom she will spend several weeks.

Misses Margaret Coleman and Anna Maguire left the city Monday and will spend the remainder of the summer in the country.

Rev. Father E. A. Martin, late of New York, has been assigned to St. Louis Bertrand's church in this city. He is an active and zealous worker.

Mrs. Thomas Cleary, of 126 First street, and Mrs. Michael Carroll, of 504 Twentieth street, are spending a couple of weeks with relatives at Chicago.

Mrs. William Wales, wife of the popular Sergeant of police, and little daughter have gone to Shelbyville, where they will spend the summer with relatives.

The mammoth society euchre at River-view park next Wednesday afternoon and evening, under the patronage of Mrs. Larry Gatto and Mrs. David Welch, will surpass any ever given in Louisville.

Mrs. K. K. Hetherington and her pretty and accomplished granddaughter, Miss Josephine Lee Byrne, have gone to Elmendorf, Mrs. C. J. Enright's beautiful country place near Lexington, to spend the remainder of the summer.

Dan W. Canniff, the well known letter carrier, and his wife and three charming daughters, Misses Tillie, Annie and Rosie, are spending a month at Richland Center, Wis., the guests of Mr. Steve Foley, and are enjoying themselves very much.

Miss Annie McGill, the Fourth-street milliner, left Thursday for New York, whence she will sail today for Europe, to be gone until about the middle of September. She will be accompanied by Mme. C. Grunder, the well known modiste.

Miss Kittie O'Donnell, one of the most popular and highly esteemed lady employees of the Illinois Central, stationed at the Seventh-street depot, left this week to visit friends and relatives at Waterloo, Iowa, her old home and birthplace. Miss O'Donnell will also spend a week in Chicago, where she is equally well known, before returning. Her many Louisville admirers will all be glad to welcome her back after a pleasant and well earned vacation.

A wedding of interest in Catholic society circles of Frankfort and Lexington was solemnized Monday morning with nuptial high mass at the Church of the Good Shepherd at Frankfort, the contracting parties being Bessie Callahan, a popular and attractive young lady resident of the Capital city, and John Cronin, a well known Lexingtonian. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Cronin, of St. Patrick's church, this city, a brother of the lucky groom.

News received Thursday from Drennon Springs reports John J. Barrett greatly improved, and his host of friends will rejoice to know that he now feels that he will be able to be with the Hibernians when they have their Irish field day outing. Drennon Springs are delightfully situated in the historic Drennon valley, the rugged beauty of which is beyond the power of ordinary description. The water there possesses extraordinary merits, and our sincere hope is that they may restore Mr. Barrett to his former good health.

FROM EMERALD ISLE.

Michael Kelly, of Dundalk, County Louth, Ireland, arrived in this city Wednesday, and is the guest of his brother, William Kelly, with the Louisville City Railway Company. Mr. Kelly is a first-class engineer, and proposes to make Louisville his future home. Speaking of the old country he declared the war taxes imposed on Ireland as awful high and iniquitous. While there is plenty of work and a promise of high wages the exorbitant rents for land in the rural districts make it impossible for the tenants to realize adequate returns from their holdings. The United Irish League, he said, was daily becoming stronger, and the people are firm in the belief that only through it and the Nationalist party can Ireland secure any laws containing any semblance of justice. Before departing he visited the Cork Exposition, where the exhibits of Irish workmanship and industry are a great surprise to foreign visitors.

FATHER GASTOLDI'S PICNIC.

Next Saturday, July 26, a picnic will be given for the benefit of St. Clare's church, Colesburg, at Beauty Hickory Grove, near Booth's Station on the L. & N., thirty-two miles from this city, in the beautiful flats between Rolling Fork river and the foot of Muldraugh Hill. Rev. John Gastoldi, who is well known in Louisville, is the pastor of St. Clare's church, and through the efforts of Messrs. A. B. French, B. J. Johnson and

F. L. Johnson arrangements have been made for a special train to take all who wish to take advantage of this opportunity for a day of real pleasure in the country, which will leave the Tenth-street depot at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and return the same evening. There will be a large floor for dancing and amusements of all kinds, and the music will be furnished by a union band from this city. Dinner and supper will be prepared by the ladies of the congregation. These dinners have long been known for the amount and quality of food prepared, and the ladies of St. Clare's are determined to maintain their reputation this year. The fare for dinner and the round trip has been placed at the small sum of seventy-five cents, and tickets may be procured at Rosenham's, Fourth and Jefferson.

JUST AS WE SAID.

Frank Cunningham Succeeds to a Higher Railway Position.

When Frank G. Cunningham left Louisville to accept a higher position with the Air Line railroad at St. Louis, and shortly afterward was made City Passenger Agent for the Louisville & Nashville there, the Kentucky Irish American then predicted that it would not be long before he went still higher. Mr. Cunningham's many Kentucky friends will be pleased to learn that the prediction has come true. From a trustworthy source we learn that he has been successful in landing the responsible and desirable position of Western Passenger Agent for the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railway, succeeding Mr. J. E. Cox, who recently resigned. The appointment becomes effective August 1, and the general office in this city will soon issue a circular giving this announcement.

Mr. Cunningham's previous positions were but stepping stones to this, his first though by no means last, official position in the railway world. He will have entire jurisdiction and charge of all the passenger business of the company in St. Louis and throughout the West. He will also have much occasion to travel and visit the various offices throughout its immense territory. Few young men have a brighter future before them than Mr. Cunningham, and the L. & S. L. made no mistake in securing him for the position. That will hereafter be the road his friends will seek when visiting the great St. Louis Exposition.

HOLY TRINITY

Will Likely Celebrate Its Golden Jubilee Anniversary in October.

Father John B. Kelly, rector of Holy Trinity church, New Albany, although he has done more to build up his congregation than any of his predecessors, takes none of the credit for himself. He is a modest man, who prefers to do his work quietly and without any ostentation. Referring to the golden jubilee which will occur in October, Father Kelly last Sunday pleasantly referred to the article in the Kentucky Irish American, and said to his congregation that if it was desired to celebrate the occasion he would insist that it be a congregational affair. He would give his hearty co-operation to any movement inaugurated by his parishioners to celebrate the event, but would not place himself at the head of the movement. Although he did not say so it is evident that Father Kelly does not wish to place himself in the position of celebrating an event in which he would naturally be made prominent. It is likely that the trustees and other leading members of the congregation will take the matter up at an early date and arrange for the celebration. It is considered no more than right that the fiftieth anniversary of the building of the largest Catholic church in Southern Indiana be celebrated in some fitting way, and Father Kelly's assistant, Father Kenny, and his trustees will be equal to the occasion.

All that was said complimentary of Father Kelly in this paper on July 5 is very pleasing to the members of his congregation, but had Father Kelly his own way about such things he would have nothing said, as he takes little credit to himself for his work.

SEASON'S BANNER EUCHRE.

The principal feature of the Cathedral outing next Wednesday afternoon and evening at Riverview Park will be the two euchres arranged by Mrs. Larry Gatto and Mrs. David Welch. These two popular ladies have secured for this affair the handsomest and largest number of prizes ever offered in Louisville. Both games will last two hours, and unless the players run up into the thousands there will prizes for nearly all who enter. Mesdames Welch and Gatto will be assisted in receiving their player friends by a number of well known young ladies, who want this to be the biggest and most successful euchre ever given in this city. It will be a long time before another to equal this one will be seen.

PASSED WITH HIGH HONORS.

Young Dr. Bernard J. O'Connor, who was graduated from the Kentucky School of Medicine last week with the highest honors, has been appointed interne at St. Anthony's Hospital. This news will give much satisfaction to his numerous friends. Dr. O'Connor, who is the son of the late lamented James O'Connor, for years the leading coal merchant of Louisville, is also a graduate of St. Mary's College, where he received the degree of M. A. The medical field gives him a wide scope and a brilliant future is predicted for him in his chosen profession.

All the new grades of burlap are finished at the back, and this favorite wall covering can now be hung as easily as paper.

POSTPONED.

Last Act in the Canonization of the Rev. Father de Andries.

The exhumation of the remains of the Very Rev. Felix de Andries, first Vicar General of the St. Louis diocese, which is the last act in the local proceeding of the canonization of Father de Andries, has been postponed, in obedience to a letter received from Rome. It was the intention when the court of inquiry into the life of Father de Andries held its last regular meeting to have the exhumation take place last Sunday.

The letter was sent by the Promoter General at Rome to the Very Rev. F. V. Nugent, C. M., President of Kenrick Seminary, who has charge of the arrangements of the inquiry. It was regarded that there is not sufficient time in which to have the exhumation made, and prepare a report before the departure of Father Nugent for Rome in the early part of July. Father Nugent stated that he expected the exhumation to be made after his return from Rome next fall. He will take with him to Rome the report of the proceedings of the court of inquiry, which is the first step in the canonization.

The next proceeding, which includes the exhumation, is called the non cultus process. It is expected that the new body will be composed of the same priests who composed the court of inquiry. The purpose of the exhumation is to complete the chain of evidence in regard to all particulars obtainable of Father de Andries, dead as well as alive. It is stated that cases are on record of persons who were known to have lived holy lives being exhumed many years after death, and the body found in a perfect state of preservation. This is not necessary, however, for canonization, nor would it without other circumstances be sufficient. It is taken for what it is regarded to be worth. The sessions of the court of inquiry were begun last July, and the taking of testimony was finished a few weeks ago. In this time about seventy witnesses were examined.

EXCITED COMMONS.

Serious Charges Against One of Wyndham's Irish Hirelings.

Sergt. Sheridan, lately of the Irish Constabulary but now living in Boston, was the subject of the most exciting debate of the session in the House of Commons Thursday night, cables the World's London correspondent. The Irish Nationalists made in their speeches these charges:

"That when stationed in County Clare some years ago Sheridan, conspiring with several of his subordinate constables, committed a series of agrarian crimes, for which they arrested and convicted by perjured testimony innocent men in that locality connected with the Irish Nationalist organization.

"That those convictions were obtained through juries from which every Catholic and Nationalist was excluded by the Government prosecuting lawyers.

"That in one case alone Sheridan got four men convicted of crimes it has since been absolutely proved he committed himself.

"That those four men were sentenced to three years' penal servitude, and one actually died in prison of a broken heart.

"That about a year ago John Dillon got information which enabled him to compel Irish Secretary Wyndham to inquire into the charges against Sheridan, Wyndham promising that if the charges were found to be true full punishment should be meted out to all concerned.

"That Wyndham's inquiry fully established the guilt of Sheridan and his police accomplices, but Sheridan threatened that if the Government dared to punish him he would expose superiors who had connived at his deeds in order to create a prejudice against the Irish Nationalist organizations.

"That, therefore, Sheridan was not only allowed to leave the country, but got a handsome contribution from the Government Secret Service Fund to start him on a fresh career in the United States."

"That was the case made out against the Government of Ireland by the Irish party, and every allegation, except that respecting the Secret Service money, was admitted by Wyndham and his Attorney General. The Irish party intends to renew the subject later, pressing for a public inquiry into the whole system of subsidized police and criminality in Ireland.

BUYS BIG LOTS.

During the past few weeks the commission men were several times surprised at the large purchases made by Pat Howard, the successful and enterprising young grocer at Twelfth and Kentucky streets. It was only last year that Mr. Howard engaged in the grocery trade, but by his gentlemanly demeanor and strict attention to business he has built up a remarkably large trade for that locality. His stock embraces everything to be found in a first-class grocery, and besides he has a nice annex stocked with the best brands of wet goods, cigars, etc. Pat has a host of friends, for whom there awaits a cordial reception when they call.

SUCCESSFUL YOUNG ATTORNEY.

The many friends of James S. McDonough will be gratified to hear of his success in Washington. Mr. McDonough left Louisville for Texas in January, but after a month's travel in the West returned to Washington, D. C., where he opened an office for himself. His most important case from a legal standpoint was that of United States vs. Robert West, who was arrested on a charge of house-breaking. Mr. McDonough worked hard to have his client acquitted, but the Court, while complimenting him on his Brown Leghorns can be kept in small yard, requiring about half feed of other chickens. They lay about ten months in the year, only stopping when moulting. Pullets begin laying at six to seven months. A few hens will supply the family with eggs. Record for three years: 1899, twelve hens and pullets, 1,233 eggs; 1900, ten hens, 868 eggs; 1901, eleven hens and pullets, 954 eggs; 1902, during very cold weather—January, 75 eggs, February 61, March 161, April 206.

defense, sentenced West to five years in the State prison. A motion for a new trial being overruled, Mr. McDonough took with him as associate counsel Messrs. Harry Hagerty and James Toomey, of the District of Columbia, and carried the case to the Supreme Court of the District. The Supreme Court unanimously decided in favor of the young attorneys and sent the case back for a new trial, resulting in the Prosecuting Attorney dismissing the case against West. Mr. McDonough is well pleased with his practice thus far, and proposes to make Washington his headquarters in future, though he will shortly return to Louisville to spend his vacation.

GOES WITH CIRCUS.

Robert A. Goering, one of the most popular men throughout the city of Louisville, now employed at the Bradley & Gilbert Company, has received a contract from the Bannum & Bailey circus which he has accepted as general excursion agent for the season of 1903. At present the company is in Baden Baden, Germany. He is very popular in the circus world, having been with the Ringling Brothers' circus for several seasons. Although his associates regret losing so interesting and lovable a companion, he has the best wishes of his many friends and fellow-employees for a rapid success.

KENTUCKY IRISH AMERICAN

ONLY ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

The Kentucky Irish American publishes more news of the Catholic Churches and Societies in the Diocese of Louisville than all the daily newspapers combined. With the Fourth of July issue it enters upon its fifth year, with the hearty support of all classes. The Kentucky Irish American should be found in every Catholic home in Kentucky, for never before was there more need for an honest and fearless champion of Catholic rights and principles. The publisher therefore calls upon all to send in their names and subscriptions, and in return they will receive a bright and newsy journal, clean and up to date in all its departments, and second to none of its older contemporaries. Persons desiring sample copies for friends can have them mailed free. We want ten thousand new subscribers this year, which will enable us to publish eight pages without increasing the subscription price. Help us now and we'll help you two-fold later.

gether dissatisfied with Mayor Jameson's discharge of his duties as our Parliamentary representative, and having already called on him to resign without result, we direct our representatives on the directory to obtain the confirmation by the directory of our vote of want of confidence.

At Maynooth College, Most Rev. Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin, performed the impressive ceremony of ordaining sixty-nine students to the priesthood. The ceremonies were witnessed by Cardinal Logue and Right Rev. Bishop O'Donnell, of Raphoe.

The Corofin Board of Guardians has decided to advertise for a matron to succeed Mrs. Eager, resigned, at a salary of $100 per year, the age to be between twenty-one and forty. The guardians promise to give preference to a lady with a good knowledge of Irish.

In Roscommon 12.7 per cent. of the population disappeared during the last decade, and the county which held 253,591 people in 1841 now has a population of only 101,791. During the past twenty years Roscommon has been declining more rapidly than during the previous thirty.

The Clare Man says "owing to the bad condition of the roads the police can not enjoy their cycle rides in the vicinity of Kilmish. We are sure we have only to mention the matter when a special meeting of the County Council will be called to remedy the evil. Police want so little here below that they generally get it."

Francis Cunneen, National school teacher at Kilkishen, was treated at Barrington's hospital for wounds on the head, none of which constitute a fracture, and therefore his detention was not necessary. The injuries, it is alleged, were received from a Limerick publican, who was stated to have assaulted Cunneen with an iron bar and a bottle.

The death has occurred at Roscommon at the age of 117 years, of an army pensioner named John O'Neill, who served under three crowned heads and drew a pension from the fourth. He was present at the taking of Sebastopol, and fought in a great many of the battles, in which he distinguished himself, as he was the possessor of several medals. Deceased was hale and hearty up to recently, when his health gave way, and he was obliged to seek admission to the local union hospital, where he died a couple of days since. Of late years he was connected with the local fire and drum band, which, under his capable tutelage, was brought to a state of great perfection, he being a most skillful musician. Considering his service to the British Government, deceased was drawing only a very meagre pension, and in his declining years his circumstances and surroundings were poor indeed.

A shocking tragedy was enacted at Curra, about six miles from Loughrea. It appears that a horse policeman named Logue, stationed at Woodford, obtained leave of absence for three hours, and taking his bicycle and a loaded revolver with him he set out for Curra. On arriving there he knocked at Mrs. McCormack's public house, and on the door being opened by her, Logue raised his revolver, fired at her and shot her dead. He then rushed into the shop and on meeting Miss McCormack fired four shots at her, wounding her severely. He then attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself, but was seized and overpowered and the weapon wrested from his hand by some people who had collected at the place. The news spread like lightning through the village and large crowds of people rushed to the house. When the full extent of what had happened became known an attempt was made to lynch Logue, but he was saved by Mrs. McCormack's son, but not until after the people had administered a good beating to him. The terrible occurrence cast a gloom over the district, where Mrs. McCormack and her family were so deservedly popular. Logue was removed to Galway jail, charged with shooting Mrs. McCormack and attempting to kill her daughter. Miss McCormack, though conscious at last reports, was in a very critical condition, with but little hopes for her recovery. She was unaware that her mother was dead and was constantly inquiring for her. Constable Logue, who is a native of the North of Ireland, maintains a cool demeanor and does not express the least regret for his terrible act.

TOAST FRANCE.

Her Sons Gather and Celebrate Fall of the Bastille.

Monday evening there was a merry gathering of Frenchmen and their ladies at Fountain Ferry Park, the guests of the Cercle de l'Union Francaise, to celebrate the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille.

The decorations were lavish and handsome and embraced the French and American flags artistically intertwined. Through justice was done an elaborate menu when President Michael Herrmann rose and responded to the toast, "France." He said that love of the mother country had not grown dim in the hearts of her children here, and that loyalty to France was all the stronger by reason of citizens in the United States whose purposes and ideals were so near to those of France. He spoke of the action of the United States after the Mar-tinique disaster as an instance of the close tie binding the nations. Joseph and Rudy Herrmann sang the "Marseillaise," assisted by the people assembled. After a number of other French songs had been rendered during an hour of real enjoyment, the remainder of the night was devoted to dancing.

FRIAR OUR GUEST.

Dr. Thomas Rodriguez, Who Acted With Gov. Taft.

A Philadelphia dispatch states that Dr. Thomas Rodriguez, Prior General of the Augustinian order, the man who has had more to do with the settlement of the friar question in the Philippines than any other leading Catholic dignitary, will be a guest in that city within the next few weeks. Dr. Rodriguez is one of the most powerful men in the Augustinian order, of which Cardinal Martinelli is a member, and he comes to preside over the chapter for the election of the Augustinian provincial and pastors of the American province to be held in Villanova.

The first week of the present month was the original date set for the chapter, but owing to Dr. Rodriguez's detention in Rome until a satisfactory settlement of the question of the friars' lands in the Philippines can be effected, caused a postponement until July 15. Dr. Rodriguez is a Spaniard, and was for years stationed in the Philippines. Consequently he is fully conversant with the political and religious situation in the islands.

He succeeded Cardinal Martinelli as head of the Augustinian order, and was appointed by the Pope as one of the commission of prelates to confer with Gov. Taft. The fact that Dr. Rodriguez is himself a friar and a member of one of the orders whose withdrawal from the islands is asked by the United States Government, adds double significance to his detention in Rome. Dr. Rodriguez will be accompanied by this country by Very Rev. C. M. Driscoll, O. S. A., one time provincial of the American province of the Augustinians.

RECENT DEATHS.

Michael O'Donnell, aged seventy-two, died Sunday evening at the home of his daughter, Miss Jane O'Donnell, 1012 Dumesnil street, of infirmities incident to his advanced age. Deceased was a native of Ireland, but came to Louisville long ago. The funeral was largely attended Tuesday morning at the Dominican church.

The news of the death of Mrs. Louisa Sivori Wibbels, the beloved wife of George Wibbels, which occurred Saturday evening at the home of her mother on East Market street, caused a feeling of deep gloom among her wide circle of friends and relatives. Mrs. Wibbels was only twenty-seven years old, and was a woman of many pleasing traits of character and a devout Catholic. For the bereaved husband and relatives there is everywhere feelings of heartfelt sympathy. Her funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Boniface church, with high mass of requiem, and the solemn services were witnessed by a large gathering of mourning friends.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES' MEETING.

The United Brotherhood of Railway Employees recently organized in this city will hold two open meetings at Beck's Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening. Every man employed on a railroad is eligible to membership, and these meetings will afford non-members an excellent opportunity to affiliate. Already 900 signatures have been secured, and as Vice Presidents Taylor and Jackson will come from Chicago to make addresses it is hoped there will be a large attendance of railroad workers, who will then learn the real objects of this great organization and the numerous benefits secured for members.

FATHER TOBIN

Learns Through Papers That He Had Become Rich.

An unusual story came to light at Nashville last Saturday, and as a result a poor Catholic priest suddenly becomes a rich man. Father Francis J. Tobin, formerly of the diocese of St. Louis, but who has recently been in the West for his health, arrived at Nashville on Wednesday, enroute for Mobile. He visited Father T. C. Abbott and then left on his journey. The next day Father Abbott saw a notice in a newspaper making inquiry for Father Tobin, whose whereabouts, it was stated, were unknown, and to whom a fortune had been left. Father Abbott at once telephoned Father Henry, with whom Father Tobin stopped at Decatur, Ala., and Father Tobin returned to the city and wired his sister, Mrs. John Alcorn, of Camden, N. J., as to the facts in the case. Saturday he received a telegram from his sister stating that their mother had died leaving her fortune to him, and that she would write full particulars. The fortune which comes into Father Tobin's possession is now estimated at $100,000. He is now with Father Abbott awaiting the letter.

SHORT NEWS NOTES.

Sir Thomas Lipton has formally declared his intention of competing for the America's cup in 1903.

The Boston City Directory discloses the astonishing fact that the John Smiths reign there no longer, being superseded by the John Sullivans, who number 111 as against thirty-eight.

Before the cold weather comes again the heaters for St. Catherine's church in Nelson county will be in place. The work of making the excavations for their reception has begun last week.

On the advice of his physician the Right Rev. Denis M. Bradley, Bishop of Manchester, N. H., has relinquished all the work of the episcopate for the time being and will spend some months in Europe in search of rest and renewed health. The Bishop will go first to Ireland, accompanied by Monsignor Murphy, of Dover. Later he will probably visit the continent. Bishop Bradley hopes to be able to resume his episcopal duties in the fall.

The new addition to St. Anthony's Hospital at Terre Haute, Ind., costing $50,000, was dedicated last Sunday afternoon with impressive exercises, conducted by Rev. Father Shideler, of Indianapolis, assisted by many local and visiting priests. The principal address was delivered by Rev. T. A. Dowd, of Indianapolis, and was a great tribute to Catholic charity and the Franciscan Sisterhood. Judge Davis and Rev. John Ryves also delivered short addresses. The addition is four stories and a basement.

The Countess of Donoughmore, one of the most recent American additions to the British peerage, has begun to make her influence felt in her husband's political career. This Irish earl is an ardent statesman, and when the recasting of the Government takes place an important position, it is predicted, will fall to him. Lady Donoughmore, who was married last December, was Miss Elena Grace. As one of three daughters of Michael P. Grace, of New York, it was natural that she should have been nicknamed "one of the Three Graces," and this appellation clings to her now.

FATHER WEISS' PICNIC.

Next Monday afternoon and night there will be a great gathering at Phoenix Hill Park of people from the southwestern part of the city to attend the picnic given for the benefit of St. George's church, Eighteenth street. This is one of the smallest parishes in the city, and the zealous pastor, Rev. George Weiss, deserves the hearty support of the entire Catholic populace in his endeavor to continue the great and holy work in which he is engaged. There will be plenty to eat and drink and refreshments of all kinds, and a good union band will dis-cord the latest and most popular concert and dance music. In addition there will be varied amusements, and the admission to all has been placed at the small sum of ten cents.

UNEXPECTED

Death of Most Rev. Patrick A. Feehan, Archbishop of Chicago.

For More Than a Year He Had Been in Delicate Health.

His Bravery During Epidemics That Prevailed in the South.

FOUNDER OF THE CATHOLIC KNIGHTS

The Most Rev. Patrick A. Feehan, Archbishop of Chicago for the past twenty-two years, died at the Archbishop's Palace in Chicago last Saturday afternoon. For more than a year the Archbishop has been in delicate health. Some time ago, for the purpose of relieving him of some of the onerous duties of his exalted office, Father J. P. Muldoon was appointed Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago. This position is not in the line of succession, and it does not follow that Bishop Muldoon will succeed him. It is possible that the Right Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, formerly of Louisville, and now Bishop of the Diocese of Peoria, may succeed to the place. No one is better qualified, and it seems this distinguished Kentuckian will be recommended by many eminent prelates.

Archbishop Feehan was a man who cared little for notoriety. Notoriety, though, is perhaps not quite the word that should be used to express the kind of prominence he avoided. He did not seem to care even for fame. He mattered nothing at all to him whether his name became a household word or not. He devoted himself to the diocese to which his consecration as Archbishop had bound him. With public questions beyond the interests of his diocese he seldom meddled. Publicity was for others. The affairs of the church as found in Chicago were for him. Although said to be a sound scholar, he never wrote on church history like Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore. Although an enthusiastic and energetic patron of schools, he never wrote on education like Bishop Spalding of Peoria. Although a man to whom it was given to help in the bringing of many diverse nationalities into a united American life, he never wrote and spoke on the American church like Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul. Although a man of great activity, his unobtrusive manner of work brought him less general recognition than was the lot of Archbishop Corrigan of New York.

For over forty-six years Patrick A. Feehan had labored in the West for the cause of religion as priest, Bishop and Archbishop. He was born in the County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1829. He had been in America since 1852. Bishop Feehan came of old Catholic stock. His mother was possessed of those exalted virtues which afterward appeared in her distinguished son. On her advice, at the age of sixteen years, he was sent to the College of Castlenock, having already shown a desire to enter the priesthood. Afterward he was sent to St. Patrick's College, Maynooth.

He came to America before he was ordained and went to the diocese of St. Louis, where he received holy orders at the hands of that distinguished pioneer of Western Catholicity, Archbishop Kenrick. He was one of his most faithful priests for many years and was much beloved by him. The fiftieth anniversary of his ordination would have been celebrated on November 1 next and was looked forward to by Catholics all over the United States.

In 1865 Father Feehan was made Bishop of Nashville, Tenn. In September, 1880, he was made Archbishop of Chicago, succeeding Bishop Foley. Bishop Feehan's administration of the affairs of the Diocese of Nashville showed that he was a man of great capacity. He filled the duties of the ecclesiastic, of the legislator and of the priest. He was a missionary of the spirit, but showed himself equal to great physical emergencies. When he arrived at his diocese in Tennessee he found but three secular priests in the State and the whole country laid waste by the civil war. The first years were years of great labor, but he succeeded in building up the church. In August, 1866, when he had been there but a year, the cholera made its appearance in Nashville. During its ravages Bishop Feehan labored unceasingly to console the sick and dying. At the close of the epidemic he purchased a home and established a community of the Sisters of Mercy.

It would take columns to recount the work of the great Archbishop in Nashville. In 1877 and 1878 when the yellow fever visited Memphis, and ministers of other denominations hesitated, the priests under Bishop Feehan remained. Twenty-three of them fell, martyrs to their faithfulness. Bishop Feehan while at Nashville had a large part in establishing the Catholic Knights of America, now the strongest life insurance organization in this country. This will forever be a monument to his memory. He foresaw the great benefits of such an organization, and it was by his direction that it was started.

When on the death of Archbishop Foley, Bishop Feehan was named as his successor, the announcement was hailed with joy by his friends and he was received in Chicago with great demonstrations. He came to take charge of eighteen counties in northern Illinois.

There were 160 churches with 180 priests in charge, and in Chicago the losses sustained in the great fire of 1871 were still evident. The Archbishop inspired the people with renewed zeal, and within a little more than a score of years over forty churches had been built and over 30,000 Catholic children were being educated in the parochial schools.

Under his administration the archdiocese of Chicago attained the reputation of being one of the richest in the United States. Eleemosynary institutions received attention. Homes for the aged, hospitals for the sick, houses of providence for young women, orphan homes and founding asylums, all attest to the care of the Archbishop to meet the needs of the city. His encouragement of a school for deaf mutes, his direction of the establishment of the Chicago industrial school for girls and his donations to St. Mary's training school for boys at Feehanville are mentioned among his works. He built the Cathedral at Chicago and the archiepiscopal residence.

When in his prime Archbishop Feehan was a fine specimen of physical manhood, standing six feet three inches, and showing in his face a high degree of intellectuality, mingled with kindness and firmness. He was retiring and unassuming in his manner.

The Archbishop participated in all the great councils of the church both in this country and in Rome during the past quarter century. In his younger days he was a man of great eloquence and attracted great crowds wherever he went. Two of the Archbishop's uncles were parish priests in Ireland. One of his sisters has long been superior of the order of Charity of La Salle. His family still lives in the little spot in Tipperary, where Patrick A. Feehan was born.

The funeral of Archbishop Feehan took place from the Cathedral of the Holy Name on Thursday and was an impressive spectacle. Nearly a thousand priests and religious of all the orders attended. The sermon was delivered by the Most Rev. Patrick J. Ryan, of Philadelphia.

Archbishop Feehan had property in his name belonging to the Archdiocese valued at $54,000,000. His private fortune was small.

CATHEDRAL.

Extensive Preparations Made by Ladies For Annual Outing.

There have been many outings given by the mother church of this city, but for none have the good women in charge had such a number of elegant things to dispose of as they will have on next Wednesday at Riverview Park. The merchants have been singularly generous, many of them sending in donations without any solicitation whatever. A handsome carved chair upholstered in velvet was sent to the Misses Finn this past week by Rhodes & Burford. Sid Raffo, who always does the right thing by everybody, also presented the same energetic young women with a handsome rocking chair for the benefit of the outing. A very fine chair was sent to Mrs. Mary Burke from Fred W. Keisker, for which they were very grateful. Mr. Spalding Coleman has donated twenty-five bushels of coal; W. H. McKnight a beautiful silk fire screen; Cathol Bros. a costly vase; a jug of the best McKenna whiskey from Henry Bosquet, and so the list runs, increasing each week in length as the different ladies, Mrs. Dave Welch, Mrs. Larry Gatto, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Burke, Miss Kate Walsh, the Misses Finn, Miss Hannah Nagle and other energetic pious women of the parish are able to signify their wishes to the exceedingly clever men who comprise our Louisville firms. Mr. Dillon Mapother sent a ping-pong set to Miss Annie Finn for her wheel of fortune; Smith & McHugh, New York store, Kaufman & Straus, all have been kind and thoughtful to these ladies who every year do so much for the success of church affairs. Their exemplar, Mrs. Smith, and her friend, Miss Walsh, always take leading parts in the work of organizing and perfecting such laborious undertakings. Mrs. David Welch and Mrs. Larry Gatto, two tireless workers, have come to the front in late years, and are helping in good fashion the veterans, who have worked in the bazar and picnic vineyard for the past twenty-five years. "In union there is strength" and the Cathedral women are noted for forgetting their individuality for the common good. The outing will be for the parochial school, and every one knows that this school is in need of all it can get. Instead of being one of the best and most largely attended in the city, a microscope is necessary to find its attendance. No better teacher can be found, and this is said advisedly, than the pious and thorough Mother Columbia, but when her efforts are hampered for want of supplies and her force is limited, very little headway can be made. A church without a prosperous school is sadly handicapped, and the Cathedral school can regain its old-time prestige only by the people of the city being interested in it. With this intention the mothers of the parish are doing all in their power to aid the outing that it may be successful and bring in the necessary shakels for the upbuilding of the school.

MUSICAL RECITAL.

The musical recital to be given at the Capital Theater in Frankfort on Monday evening by Miss Kathryn Gibbons and Miss Margaret Berberich promises to be exceedingly interesting and will doubtless be largely attended by the music-loving public of the Capital City. Miss Gibbons is recognized by celebrated critics as one of the best sopranos in the South, while Miss Berberich ranks among the finest of pianists.

LITTLE CASINO PICNIC.

The Little Casino Club picnic at Eisenmenger's Park tomorrow week promises lots of fun for those who attend. The club membership is composed mostly of jolly Germans who know how to arrange a day of pleasure. A feature will be the beatwurst fest, which will continue during the afternoon and evening.

REORGANIZATION

Decided Upon by the Irish-American Society Thursday Night.

Committee Named to Draw Outline That Will Give New Impetus.

Members Will Have Until the August Meeting to Make Settlements.

ALL BILLS WERE ORDERED PAID

The article in last week's Kentucky Irish American and the circular letter of Secretary Walsh had the effect of bringing out an unusually large attendance at Thursday night's meeting of the Irish-American Society. Men were there for the first time in months, which showed that much interest was yet felt in the organization. President Flynn occupied the chair and presided with his usual dignity and impartiality. After the transaction of the usual routine business the question of importance, the future of the Irish-American Society, was brought forward as a special order.

From some unaccountable cause the meetings have been poorly attended and there was a lack of interest that would only have had effect if continued. The names of many men were being carried on the rolls who were in arrears, which was unjust to those who were prompt, and it was with a view to putting an end to this state of affairs that the resolution to reorganize had been introduced. Messrs. Thomas Cleary, Joseph Byrne, Denny Heffernan, W. M. Murphy and others in spirited talks advocated vigorous action and the establishment of a substantial death benefit on the mutual insurance plan.

Thomas Walsh, the Financial Secretary, pointed out the necessity and declared great results would follow reorganization. He also favored another election of officers when the reorganization took place. Others spoke in the same strain, and the resolution to effect a reorganization was carried by a unanimous vote.

All bills were ordered paid, and then President Flynn suggested the appointment of a committee to outline a plan of procedure for the new organization, pleading for a friendly and brotherly feeling among the members. His talk was fearless and spirited, and that portion urging measures that would bring Irish-Americans closer together was warmly applauded.

Thomas Cleary favored laws that would compel the organization to look after the political as well as other interests of members, but action was not taken. Capt. Mike Lawler, one of the founders of the society, suggested the selection of temporary officers, with the result that the present incumbents will continue to officiate until the reorganization plans are acted upon and an election takes place.

Upon motion the whole matter was referred to a committee of seven, with instructions to draft laws for the government of the body and outline its plan and policy. The chair named Messrs. Thomas Walsh, Joe Byrne, Denny Heffernan, Thomas Cleary, William Lawler, Capt. Mike Lawler and W. M. Murphy as the committee, and they promised an interesting report at the next meeting.

The proceedings were friendly throughout, and it is hoped that the results of the new movement will prove satisfactory. The men who have this reorganization in hand have had experience, and it is believed they will put the Irish-American Society on the road to success and a large membership.

FRANKFORT.

Improvements on Church of Good Shepherd Nearing Completion.

Work upon the interior of the Church of the Good Shepherd at Frankfort is progressing nicely. The walls are being beautifully frescoed and add greatly to the appearance of the interior. Two new altars are to be added and the sanctuary will be greatly enlarged. Beautiful and costly Stations of the Cross are to be imported from Italy. The main entrance, for years closed, is to be opened up and the stairs to the gallery will open into one of the side entrances instead of the main entrance as heretofore. When finished it will be one of the most beautiful churches in the Diocese of Covington. Father Major, the pastor, has worked assiduously to secure the numerous improvements and certainly deserves praise for the manner in which he has succeeded. The windows are to be replaced by memorial windows of the latest and most modern pattern, numerous members of the congregation having subscribed for the same as a memorial to their honored dead. The Young Men's Institute, Catholic Knight of America, Catholic Knights and Ladies of America and other societies will be represented by memorial windows.

A handsome new organ, purchased at a cost of $2,500, will assist the choir in rendering sweet music in the future. The exterior of the church is also being painted and improved.

To make home-made crackers, moisten good strong flour with water. The dough must be hard and rather dry; knead and pound until it becomes soft and elastic; then roll it out into a very thin sheet and cut into rounds or squares; prick over the top with a fork and bake in a moderate oven until they are a golden brown.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

The daily attendance at the Cork International Exposition has reached the 20,000 mark.

The Rev. Father Hayes, of Balingglass, Wicklow, was severely bruised and cut by falling from his bicycle.

In Irishtown, Clonmel, James Crennins, feeling fatigued, lay down to take a nap. He was found dead a few minutes later.

On Friday, James Byrne, aged 37, residing at 28 Carysfort street, Blackrock, died suddenly while working in the garden attached to the Frascati place.

The sixty employees of Crosse & Blackwell, tin smiths, Cork, went on a strike because the firm attempted to introduce female labor and refused to pay extra for overtime.

James Collins, a gardener, aged fifty-three, was found dead in a greenhouse at Olney, Aylesbury road, Wednesday. He had been ill for several days, but went to his work as usual.

Rev. Dennis Scannell, a native of Castlemartyr, was ordained to the priesthood at Valladolid College, Scotland. He has two brothers, also priests, in the mission at Glasgow.

Mr. P. J. McDermott, D. C., and Mr. Michael Gormley, C. C., convicted of conspiracy to intimidate John Durken, were taken to Sligo jail last week to serve a sentence of one month.

Dennis Kelly, living near Dunmanway, being taken past the station by the train, jumped off. His right foot and ankle were severely bruised and sprained. He was taken to the hospital.

Rev. James Victory, for many years curate at the Cathedral, Marlborough street, Dublin, died at his sister's residence, Bridge street, last week. He had been in failing health for several years.

There is universal sorrow at Kiltelly, Limerick, over the death of Rev. Timothy Bourke, curate, in his fifty-second year. Father Bourke had labored zealously for twenty-five years and was loved by his people.

The smallpox outbreak in Belfast is about over, no new cases being reported. The force of nurses is being gradually reduced as patients are dismissed from the hospital, there being only twelve patients remaining.

Patrick O'Leary, aged twenty-one, a farmer's son, residing at Baronavoutha, near Kinsdale, was drowned in the harbor by the overturning of a sail boat. His three companions were able to keep afloat till rescued.

A man named Todd died at Clones, Monaghan, of injuries alleged to have been inflicted by police in arresting him for intoxication. The police claim he resisted and they defended themselves. An inquest will be held.

In Waterford, James McDonald, a native of Dublin, employed in Lawless' hair dressing room, committed suicide by cutting his throat after failing to hang himself. Despondency over continued ill health is the cause assigned.

William Mitchell, a prominent merchant of Derry, journeying at Warrenpoint, while on the steamer Pilot on Carlingford loch, fell overboard and drowned during a gale. All efforts at rescue failed. His body has not been recovered.

Maggie Kavanagh, aged twelve, residing at Clontarf, fell from the rocks at Balcadden, Howth, and was seriously injured about the head, necessitating her removal to the Jervis street hospital, Dublin. No bones were broken and she will recover.

In both the Tyrone and Armagh assizes the Judges had only twelve petty cases, and after brief sessions adjourned with congratulations to the people on their respect for law and order, there not having been an agrarian case in those counties for months.

On June 12, the cross was placed on the apex of the spire of the new Church of St. Patrick, Trium. The church will be one of the most beautiful churches in Ireland, and has been over ten years in course of erection. It cost one hundred thousand dollars.

Three men were detected by passers-by robbing the Sligo Cathedral Friday night. They had rifled a contribution box, broken a window and removed the safe to the yard, when interrupted. They escaped, and a man named Loftus has been arrested on suspicion.

Miss Bridget Carry, news agent Trimgate street, Navan, died June 19, after a very brief period of sickness, deeply and widely regretted. The house in which she died business has been a news depot for the past one hundred years. The funeral was very largely attended.

John Naylor, national teacher of Errona school, County Roscommon, was killed by a fall off a car on the public road near Boyle, June 7. He was a native of Longford. Great sympathy was expressed for his wife and children. The sad event was purely accidental.

The attempt of a constable to assist the military police in arresting three soldiers in Dublin was resented by the soldiers, a lively fight resulting in bruises and bloody heads. The soldiers were overpowered, two lodged in jail, and one, Private Waite, taken to the hospital.

The Furdysburn asylum, two miles from Belfast, was damaged several thousand dollars by fire which started in the laundry. The aid of fire engines from Belfast saved the main building from damage. The laundry, with machinery, wash house and drying room, were a total loss.

The prosecution against Patrick Mc-

Garry, Sr., Patrick McGarry, Jr., and Owen Grady, who live near Frenchpark, and who were charged under the coercion act with rioting on the boycotted estates, has been abandoned. This is a great and unqualified victory for the United Irish League.

Glass breaking cranks have turned up in Dublin and a number of valuable plate glass windows have been broken in the past month. Vigilance by police resulted in catching James and John Kelly breaking two plate glass windows of Arnott & Co., valued at $375. They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.

At Tullow, County Wexford, a public meeting adopted resolutions and appointed committees to erect a memorial monument in the public square in honor of Rev. John Murphy, who was executed as a "rebel" in 1798. The resolutions approved the "cause for which Father John Murphy fought and died." Over $300 was subscribed at the meeting.

The growth of the United Irish League in England is rapid and widespread, and the membership is not confined to the Irish. An idea of its extent may be inferred from the fact that an issue of the Dublin Freeman contains reports of meetings of thirty-six branches in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Newcastle, Newport, Plymouth and other places.

Right Rev. Dr. Clancy, Bishop of Elphin, formally opened the new shirt factory in Sligo. The industry will give employment to many persons, young and old, and will thus relieve the rate-payers of the burden of supporting the aged, and save the young from going to other countries to earn a living. The whole island is greatly in need of industries of this and other kinds.

Excitement and rumors of plots were caused Friday night about Dublin Castle by a stranger approaching the guard at the main entrance and, claiming to be the King, demanding his gun. The guard presented bayonet to the intruder and called the Corporal. The man was arrested, and in court gave his name as Alexander Armstrong. Investigation developed hallucination, and on the advice of physicians he was sent to a lunatic asylum.

On June 15 the foundation stone of the monument to the memory of Michael Dwyer, the insurgent chief, and Sam MacAllister was laid by Mr. E. P. O'Kelly, Chairman of the Wicklow County Council in Balingglass. The occasion will ever be remembered by the people of West Wicklow, whose desire to perpetuate the memory of their heroic and noble countryman, Dwyer, and that of the heroic MacAllister was manifested by the monster concourse of persons which filled the Market square of the old and historic town of Balingglass.

Mr. John Fitzgibbon, the veteran Nationalist of Castlereagh, now in Sligo prison, under the Coercion Act, for helping the work of the United Irish League, was unanimously elected chairman of the local Board of Guardians whilst in jail. In his letter from the prison thanking those who elected him he wrote: "England has been generous to us in jails and workhouses. These institutions have been built so strong that it would appear that their use was contemplated for all time. They are emblematic of Ireland, poor and discontented—the poor occupy the workhouse, and the discontented, among whom I am, fill the jails."

The Orange celebrations on the 12th were generally without serious disturbance, except at Warrenpoint and Newry, where the Orangemen seem to have hunted trouble. They came by train from Armagh and Tynan to Warrenpoint. Passing through Newry they fired revolvers directly into the houses and at persons on the streets or in fields. Returning in the evening they did the same. There were many narrow escapes. Mary Ellen Adams, a young woman, passing along the street, was shot in the arm, and Susan Littlewood, a young woman standing in her doorway with an infant in her arms, was shot in the arm, the bullet grazing the baby. That more were not hit is surprising, as the shooting was general on both trips through Newry. At Warrenpoint the Orangemen attacked and wrecked a public house, injuring several persons, and were dispersed by the police.

A bog slip of enormous proportions occurred at Annagh, near Cooteshall, on June 15 causing serious damage to crops and newly-cut turf for farmers. Some ridges of potatoes and oats made a complete somersault, and others were twisted and contorted in a most fantastic manner. They were carried away by the impact and deposited on rich meadow land. In the case of the turf banks, the "faced" banks are completely obliterated in a number of instances. The "hollows" having been raised several feet higher than the uncut banks. The scene of the disaster presents an amazing appearance. The entire bog, which contains about a thousand acres, appears to have been in a state of convulsion. Gaping chasms and rents are visible. It is difficult to account for the cause of the slip. The bog is elevated in the center and inclines toward the river Shannon, from which it is separated partly by the townland of Annagh and partly by "bottom" land. Apparently it gave way at the centre, and rushed avalanche like to the lower level, carrying forward everything in its mad career.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

The Rhode Island State convention has been called to meet at Newport on August 15.

The biennial convention of Rhode Island will meet in the City Hall in Newport, August 13.

The Hibernians donated the altar railing of the new Cathedral in Dallas, Tex., which will soon be completed.

Rhode Island has another new division, one being instituted with due ceremony at South Providence last Sunday.

Division 6, Cincinnati, is enjoying a boom. At its last meeting twenty-six members were initiated, and prospects indicate a continuance of this rate of increase.

Thirty-seven years ago the first division in Connecticut was organized at Bridgeport. Today there are sixty-seven divisions in the Nutmeg State, with a membership of nearly 6,000 and a treasury of over $37,000.

A new division of thirty-six members was organized in South Providence, R. I., July 20, by County President John Dillon. The four degrees were conferred by the degree team of Division No. 18, and officers elected and installed.

There are twenty-seven divisions of the Ladies' Auxiliary in Connecticut, with a membership of 3,700 and a balance in the treasuries for sick and disabled of $14,275. They have expended in five years $17,220 for sick benefits.

The next work after field day will be the organization of a Ladies' Auxiliary and the establishment of a gymnasium for the younger members. The auxiliary is a necessity. We have lovely young girls and lovely old ladies, and all that is necessary to institute a great division for them is for the young men and old men to take the proper interest and encourage them.

Joe Gilligan and Edward Cradick never fail when assigned the duty of investigating the worthiness of candidates. Recently they had the name of a well known resident of the Hill assigned them, but were unable to find him. Nothing daunted, however, they persevered until they found his namesake, whom they succeeded in investigating to their entire satisfaction. They afterward discovered their mistake, but not until the first party found them. The result is that Division 1 will soon initiate both.

The Colorado State convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held at Victor, July 22. Previous to the assembling of the delegates they attended services at St. Victor's Catholic church, where Rev. Father Edward Downey celebrated mass. Mrs. Con McGuire presided over the convention. J. T. Keating made a fine address and was very warmly received. Judge Shine, of Georgia, also spoke. The Misses Lewis and O'Holloran, of Michigan, spoke on the Ladies' Auxiliary work. The afternoon session was executive and was devoted to reports of State officers and the discussion of an insurance plan. In the evening a branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary for Colorado was organized.

Irish day in Providence, R. I., this year was most successful and the committee and members in general are to be congratulated on the large turnout and the programme of enjoyment provided for the day. The prize colors were won by the Mitchell Guards with ninety-six points, Emmet Rifles secured second place with ninety-three points, the William Orr Guards third with seventy-six and one-half points, and the Wolfe Tones Guards the fourth place with sixty-nine points. In the hundred yards dash Boylan, of Taunton, was first; Buckley, of Olneyville, second, and Mullaney, of Fall River, third. In the high jump Pollard, of Springfield, won first prize; Buckley, of Olneyville, second, and Powers, of Olneyville, third. In throwing the shot Philbin, of Taunton, won first; Scott, of Providence, second, and Cullen, of Riverpoint, third. In the broad jump Pollard, of Springfield, was first; Buckley, of Olneyville, second, and Powers, of Olneyville, third. The Irish jig and reel dance was won by Cullen, of Taunton, with McCarthy, of Fall River, second, and Scanlan, of Riverpoint, third.

THE LONGEST DAY.

At Stockholm Sweden, the longest day is eighteen and one-half hours in length.

At Spitzbergen, the longest day is three and one-half months.

At London, England, and Bremen, Prussia, the longest day has sixteen and one-half hours.

At Hamburg, in Germany, and Dantz, in Prussia, the longest day has seventeen hours.

At Wardburg, Norway, the longest day lasts from May 21 to July 22, without interruption.

At St. Petersburg, Russia, and Tobolsk, Siberia, the longest day is nineteen hours, and the shortest five hours.

At Tornes, Finland, June 21 brings a day nearly twenty-two hours long, and Christmas one less than three hours in length.

At New York the longest day is about fifteen hours, and at Montreal, Canada, it is sixteen.

But the longest day of all will be in New Jerusalem; for "there shall be no night there."

A gentleman who had the misfortune to lose his nose had occasion, on his way to business in Dublin, to pass an old beggar woman who invariably saluted him with the good-natured but, to him, incomprehensible prayer, "Hiven preserve yer honor's eyesight!" The gentleman,

SEARCH FOR A FELLOW-PRIEST

(Special Correspondence of the Kentucky Irish American.)
ST. ANDREW'S ISLAND, COLUMBIA, June 13.—Today the patron feast of our little chapel, St. Anthony of Padua, has been celebrated in this island for the first time. The service has been well attended by the natives. The young people especially show quite an interest in the instructions I have been giving since the chapel has been opened, and about fifty grown people, of which there are twenty young men, have already expressed their intention of taking regular instructions in the catechism. I am thinking of getting up a reading circle among them, and any Catholic papers or books sent to the above address would be an act of charity by the readers of the Kentucky Irish American. I have two little boys who have already learned to serve my mass.

Recently I made a trip to the coast in order to go to confession, having not seen a priest since I arrived in this island last October. My first landing place was Bluefields, Nicaragua, but I found, to my great regret, that not only the Catholic church of that place but also at the two nearest towns, Baina, sixty miles inland, and Creyton, were without a priest. In both these places the people begged me to remain with them, which of course I could not do. The city officials in Bluefields suspected me of being a political spy sent by Columbia, so they cited me before the Chief of Police, where I was examined with all kinds of silly questions, which I had to answer, and the Chief's Secretary wrote it all down and I was asked to sign the document, which appeared to me most ridiculous. The Nicaragua Government is not on friendly terms with the Conservative Government of Columbia, but takes the part of the Liberals, hence their suspicion about a priest coming from Columbia, to which St. Andrew's Island belongs.

Having found no priest on the Nicaraguan coast, I took a sailing vessel to Bocas del Toro, in Columbia, and arrived there in three days, about noon on Pentecost Sunday. Hearing from the captain early in the morning that we would not land before noon I celebrated mass on board of the vessel. After landing I went to the Catholic church, but was told that the pastor, Rev. N. Rohden, had fled to the States at the time the Liberals took possession of the place after the fight with the Conservatives, April 17. Luckily, however, I found a Jesuit father here, who acted as army chaplain for the Conservatives. I had to remain a week till a boat was going to St. Andrew's Island, during which time I enjoyed the company of this kind father, who occupied the Sisters' convent, they also having returned to their mother house in New Orleans on account of the revolution. In the fight on April 17 the church and convent had been damaged, but the Liberals were prevented by their General from entering and robbing the church.

During my stay at Bocas del Toro I heard nothing but praise of the zealous missionary, Rev. P. Volk, predecessor of the present pastor, who, I hear, is at present in Kentucky collecting for the new church he is building in David.

On the day I left a steamer from Colon brought additional Government troops and a battle was expected in a few days. The Liberals, after being driven out of Bocas del Toro, located at Chiriqui, at a great distance from the town. A few weeks later news reached us here that the Liberals withdrew into the mountains toward David.

My trip back to St. Andrew's Island reminded me a good deal of my first trip from Limon, Porto Rico. That trip took fourteen days, this one ten days. Both times we had contrary or no wind. This time, however, the vessel being a large one, we had at least something to eat. I had two fellow-passengers, one an American, the other a German, on my trip back to St. Andrew's. Also on this trip we one night had a terrible thunderstorm. Lightning struck the sea with a deafening thunder clap only about fifty feet from our vessel, and the gigantic wave caused by it threw the vessel high up. I called on St. Andrew, the patron of the sea farers, and it was found that no damage had been done to the vessel nor anybody on it. We finally reached St. Andrew's on June 5, just in time to open the novena which I had in view, as preparations for the approaching feast of the patron of our chapel, St. Anthony, June 13.

RECENT DEATHS.

The many friends and relatives were shocked at the news of the sudden death of Herman Kilmer last Sunday from the heat. He was stricken at 11 o'clock, as he was coming down stairs to dinner. He was employed by Henry Iring as a hardwood finisher. He leaves a wife and several children, who have the sympathy of the community. His funeral took place Tuesday morning from the Sacred Heart church and the interment was in St. Louis cemetery.

John Thornton, one of the best known and most popular citizens of Floyd county, Ind., died Wednesday night at his home in Edwardsville, a few miles west of New Albany, and the news of his passing away was a great shock to his numerous friends throughout Southern Indiana. For several weeks past he had been ill with liver trouble, which became complicated with kidney disease, and since last Sunday he had been unconscious. John Thornton was born in Ireland fifty-six years ago, but came to this country when a child. For forty-five years he had been a resident of Floyd county, and was noted for his love of his church, his native land and adopted country. Besides his wife he leaves one son, James Thornton, and one brother, Michael Thornton. For many years he had conducted a general store at Edwardsville, and by his energy and honesty had been quite successful. In 1888 he was elected Sheriff of Floyd county by the Democrats and was re-elected in 1892 and since then has been living in Edwardsville. Mr. Thornton was a leading member of Holy Trinity church in New Albany, and prominent in the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Catholic Knights of America. His funeral takes place this morning from Holy Trinity church. Rev. Father Kelly will celebrate the solemn mass of requiem, and the attendance will be the largest seen for many a day.

NAME DEGREE TEAM.

Division 3 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at their meeting Monday night named the members of its new degree team as follows:

Patrician—Patrick J. Welsh.
Oracle—John Cavanaugh.
Bard—Thomas Quinn.
Guide—Lawrence Mackey.
Sentinel—Hugh Higgins.
Guards—Thomas Noone, Thomas Higgins, Richard Daniel, Daniel Raftery, Frank Kenney, Peter Linskey, Pat Begley and Tom Filburn.

This will be the first division here to have its own degree team. The two teams that have been conducting the initiations heretofore were selected from the four divisions by officers of the County Board.

LEGION OF HONOR.

An Associated Press dispatch from Paris announces that Gen. Patrick A. Collins, Mayor of Boston, Mass., has been appointed an officer of the Legion of Honor, and Paul Capdeville, Mayor of New Orleans, Thomas St. John Gaffney, an attorney of New York, and Mr. Duven, a merchant of New York, have been appointed Chevaliers of the Legion.

OFFICIAL ROUTE TO CALIFORNIA.
The Monon route has been paid the signal compliment of being selected by Gen. W. R. Logan as the official route for himself and staff at the Kentucky Brigade Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, to the national encampment at San Francisco. The rate of $35.50 from Louisville has been accepted and all arrangements are completed for a delightful trip. A special train, open to the public generally, will start from Louisville Tuesday, August 5, at 8:20 p. m., via Monon route. At Chicago the train passes onto the Chicago & Northwestern railway, and in turn will be handled by the Union Pacific to Denver, the Denver & Rio Grande to Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific to Frisco. Stops will be made at Denver and other points of interest, at which the sleepers will be parked for occupancy. Full particulars of this peerless outing will be furnished in printed form by addressing E. H. Bacon, D. P. A., Monon route, Louisville, Ky.

FEDERATION.

Meeting of Catholic City and County Federation With Full Attendance.

New Constitution Considered, Delegates Named and Other Business Transacted.

Prominent Delegation Will Represent This City at the Chicago Convention.

THEY WILL LEAVE MONDAY NIGHT

The Catholic Federation of this city and county met at Satolli Hall last Tuesday evening. Fifteen organizations were represented. Dr. Fowler presided. Committee on Constitution and By-laws reported. The by-laws were adopted, but the constitution is not yet complete. The Federation is acting under the provisional constitution in the meantime.

Mr. Newton G. Rogers was added to the Committee on Constitution. Communications from National Secretary Matre were read. All societies were urged to remit promptly their per capita tax, and Secretary Cooney will send out notices giving information on this and other matters.

Arrangements have been made for the delegates from this city and State to leave Monday night for Chicago to attend the convention of the National Federation. All delegates selected, or who may be selected, should report to Secretary Cooney for particulars as to time, rates, hotels and other details.

Thus far the delegation will be composed of Dr. J. W. Fowler, Eugene Cooney, William T. Meehan, John J. Crotty, Walter Lincoln, Frank a Menne and probably others.

The convention at Chicago promises to be a representative body of Catholics from all sections of the country, most creditable considering the short time since the movement was inaugurated, and though it has developed rapidly it is as yet incomplete in organization and work. This will be arranged and completed at the Chicago meeting, which will include Bishops, priests and many of the most prominent laymen.

To their credit, the Louisville Catholics have done more than the average anywhere, and will present not only an able delegation, but they will represent a large constituency. In due time every Catholic organization will be in it in this city, either directly or through their central organizations.

JOLLY OUTING.

The old Cornia Club camp ground was the scene of a jolly gathering last Sunday, when a number of young men who had spent happy days there in years gone by assembled for a day's merrymaking. A bountiful dinner was spread, and after all had been served, a few hours were devoted to reminiscences of the past and renewal of friendships. Among those present were James J. Flynn, Edward J. Dalton, George A. Shea, John L. Sullivan, Pat Mangan, Barney O'Hearn, Clarence Kochenath, Christ Jarboe, J. R. Jarboe, Otto Kessler, Con Savage and Ferguson Kennedy. The Cornia Club during its existence was very popular, and those who received invitations to their camp considered themselves quite fortunate.

CHICAGO BAND CONCERTS.

Brooke's famous Chicago Marine Band, which began a two weeks' engagement at Phoenix Hill Park last Monday night, sustained its high reputation and has met with a cordial reception from Louisville music lovers. They will give concerts tomorrow afternoon and evening and every night next week, when special programmes will be rendered. Each night there has been an increased attendance, and upon all sides are heard kind words for the enterprise and spirit exhibited by the managers of this popular park, which again enjoys its old-time patronage from our best citizens.

FEAST OF ST. DOMINIC.

Monday, August 4, is the feast of St. Dominic. The day will be celebrated with a solemn high mass at St. Louis Bertrand's church at 10:30 o'clock on Sunday, August 3.
